U.N. Seeks Palestine Peace By Conciliation

Three-Nation Commission To Head Plan

Paris, Dec. 3.—(AP)—The United Nations political committee virtually approved tonight a three-nation Palestine conciliation commission but giving it no specific directives. Weary committee delegates completed taking a paragraph by paragraph vote on the proposal but delayed the final vote until tomorrow when they can study the corrected text.

Adjustment came after three wrangling sessions today and tonight.

The 30-nation committee still must act on a Canadian suggestion calling upon the United States, Britain, France and Russia to select the three nations which will compose the conciliation commission.

Headquarters in Jerusalem. Committee approval was granted to a French suggestion that the commission have its headquarters in Jerusalem and that the U.N. furnish enough guards to protect the commission.

The committee also must act on a Russian resolution demanding the withdrawal of all foreign troops and military personnel from Palestine; on a Syrian proposal for a single state in Palestine which would have an Arab majority, and a Syrian request for an opinion by the international court of justice on the U.N. partition plan.

Earlier the U.S. abandoned all attempts to push its ideas on Israel's boundaries through the general assembly. A committee revolt continued today against British and American efforts to write directives on boundaries into the resolution. The delegates killed a British proposal which many opponents charged was intended to give the Arab part of the Holy Land to Transjordan.

Before Anglo-U.S. Plan. Yesterday the political committee rejected two British and American attempts to include the Partition plan and the Bernadotte report as starting points for considering Israel's boundaries.

But today the U.S. delegation got committee approval of a broad program permitting a conciliation commission to study the boundary issues without any specific instructions. The vote was 42 to two with 12 abstentions.

On the basis of the political committee's actions Australian, New Zealand, American and Russian informants said it was inevitable now that less emphasis will be placed on the plan of the assassinated mediator Count Folke Bernadotte, in any final Palestine settlement.

Approve Conciliation Commission. The 30-nation committee has approved establishment of the conciliation commission but has refused equally the Bernadotte suggestion to instruct the commission to weigh and the partition plan approved a year ago by the U.N.

Bernadotte suggested the original partition scheme be revised by giving the Negev desert to the Arabs and Western Galilee to the Jews. The Jews opposed his plan because it would reduce the partition-plan Israel by two-thirds or more. The Arabs opposed it because they were against any Palestine partition.

By a vote of 19 to 17 at a night session the committee approved making Haifa a free port and Lydda a free airport, only part of the Bernadotte recommendation to be passed so far. The Jews now hold both places.

Convicts Win Cut In Sentences

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Fifty Illinois convicts won reduced prison sentences today because they voluntarily became Malaria fever victims in a wartime experiment.

Governor Green reduced their sentences as a reward for their participation in what medical investigators described as highly successful experiments with a new drug.

The anti-Malaria experiments were carried out at Stateville penitentiary near Joliet over three World War II years. Dr. Alf S. Alving of Chicago, supervisor of the Illinois phase of the national project, said the Stateville experiments "exceeded all hopes or expectations."

Reds Turn To Meet Government Troops

Nanking, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Communist columns on the Hwai river line today to meet the threat of large Chinese government forces marching south from Suowu.

Collision of these armies of more than 100,000 combatants on each side at some still-to-be determined point was expected to produce decisive results.

Latest pro-government dispatches from the front gave this picture of an unusual military situation:

The government's Suowu garrison abandoned Suowu Dec. 1 and has moved possibly 40 miles south, confronted only by small communist holding forces.

This former Suowu garrison is in three army groups, the second, 13th and 15th, totaling about 250,000 men but estimated to have 110,000 effective fighting troops.

Its evident mission is to make contact with the government 12th army group of 100,000 men tightly encircled by an equal number of communists 30 miles farther south.

Sixty miles southeast, the government sixth and eighth army groups of 60,000 men are holding a salient north of the Hwai river line.

Seven communist columns under Gen. Chen Yi have been attacking the Hwai river salient.

Now, dispatches say they have broken off the assault. Leaving only a small holding force behind, Chen Yi is reported sending six of his columns north as rapidly as possible to stop the government march south from Suowu.

His seventh column is reported marching northwest to join Gen. Lien Po-Cheng's seven columns in strengthening the nose around the trapped government 12th army group.

To rescue the 12th army group, the former Suowu garrison faced the prospect of a 30-mile fighting advance, plus another 30 miles to reach the Hwai river salient.

When and where the issue would be joined remained in doubt.

Authoritative government military quarters meanwhile confirmed the abandonment of Suowu and its seizure by the communists.

Government quarters also disclosed that Nanking's immediate defenses were being strengthened by ordering in some 35,000 troops from the Hankow area, 300 miles southwest of this capital. These reinforcements were described as now en route.

Mme Chiang Sees Marshall Twice In China Aid Plea

Washington, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Mme. Chiang Kai-shek conferred today with the U.S. ambassador for the second time in 24 hours and told reporters she came away "encouraged."

The Chinese president's wife is here seeking stepped-up help for the nationalist government in its war against the Chinese Reds. She visited Marshall at Walter Reed hospital, where he is undergoing a physical check-up.

"We talked about China and I am encouraged," Mme. Chiang told reporters as she emerged from a visit which lasted nearly four hours.

She added with a smile: "I would like to know anybody who has seen and talked with General Marshall and does not come away encouraged."

Mme. Chiang was accompanied by Mrs. Marshall, as was the case when she made her first brief visit to the cabinet officer late yesterday. She and Mrs. Marshall lunched with the secretary. The Chinese first lady is a house guest at the Marshall's home at Leesburg, Va.

Mme. Chiang said she has not completed further plans for her stay in the United States, pressing home her appeal for help.

President Truman, however, told his news conference yesterday that he has granted her request for an interview. He did not say when he would meet her.

Hunters Force Woman To Take Refuge In City

Matador, Tex., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Like a fugitive from a front line of battle, Mrs. Arthur M. Tanner fled today to purchase some "No Hunters" signs.

But she was a little late. Already this week, Quail hunters on the Tanner farm, 15 miles north of here, had:

1. Blasted all the windows out of the broader house.

2. Hit milk buckets sunning on the fence.

3. Sent so much birdshot whirling through the air that workmen installing a kerosene gas system frequently had to snuff for cover.

4. Kept the young Tanner sons indoors.

Mrs. Tanner said hunters had encircled the farm and captured it without a struggle.

DENISON U. OBSERVES 'WOMAN-HATING WEEK'

Granville, O., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Two airplanes dropped leaflets on the Denison University campus today. They read:

"The boys of Denison give way to the men of Kenyon."

Then the leaflets invited girl students of Denison to come unattached to a LaCrosse team dance Saturday night at Kenyon College, an all-male school 39 miles north of here.

The shower of leaflets was precipitated by a stunt of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity at Denison. The fraternity launched a "woman-hating week" and beset the Denison girls in Kenyon.

President Silences Pleas For Finances

Washington, Dec. 3.—(AP)—President Truman, struggling with next year's budget, clamped a virtual "silence" order today on the armed forces and other agencies seeking to convince the public they need more money.

Family quarrels about money should be kept in the family, was the sense of a letter he sent to the army, navy and air force—and all other government agencies.

The letter urged the departments to "exercise extreme caution" in talking about budget affairs and the purpose was to "prevent any premature announcements." (The White House traditionally has claimed the right to make the first announcements on the annual government budgets, a tradition not always observed.)

At the White House, it was said the letter was "not a gag" on the departments. Nevertheless, it set off a series of directives by the secretary of the three armed services to their personnel to keep their money arguments out of the public eye. The army even classified the relevant figures as secret.

The letter came in the midst of a rising number of published stories describing the reaction of each service to Mr. Truman's proposal that the overall military budget for the next fiscal year, beginning next July, be limited to $15,000,000,000. Each service has its own plans in the national defense picture must be altered if the budget ceiling is held to the level tentatively set by the White House and Budget Bureau.

At the outset, the total of estimates by the three services was in the neighborhood of $23,000,000,000. Then a second estimate ranged around $17,000,000,000. Present spending is at the rate of about $12,000,000,000 a year.

The question of how much to spend on military needs ties directly in with how much shall be taken from taxpayers.

Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, head of the president's economic advisory committee, has said twice within the last month: If military spending runs much over $15,000,000,000, then it may become necessary to raise taxes and return to federal controls.

Some of those arguing against the $15,000,000,000 ceiling say they know it must mean higher taxes, but they add that limits on military spending would risk greater costs, perhaps even the tremendous cost of war.

Unidentified Plane Fires On Tuna Clippers

San Diego, Calif., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Three American Tuna Clippers were fired on by an "unidentified plane" off the coast of Nicaragua yesterday morning, Harold Carr, executive manager of the American Tunaboat association, reported today.

Carr said he received the following telegram from the skipper of one of the three fishing boats:

"Tuna Clippers Liberator, city of San Diego and San Ray fired on by unidentified plane 12:15 Greenwich time Dec. 2, 10 miles offshore, 70 miles southeast of Corinto. No damage suffered."

Carr said he immediately telephoned the information to the State department in Washington, D.C.

(In Los Angeles the Times published today that it was an unidentified report that the fishing boats were fired upon by planes identified as Nicaraguans. The story said the planes flew away after the boats broke out American flags.)

Eleventh naval district headquarters and Coast Guard officials in San Diego said they had no official confirmation of the attack.

In Washington, the State department confirmed it had received a report of the episode, and has asked the American embassy in Nicaragua to investigate.

Hence, said Goldwasser, she would not go back to swear out warrants against the two white men who are accused of killing her husband, Robert Mallard, from ambush Nov. 20.

Goldwasser sought Tallmadge's aid in having the Georgia Bureau of Investigation issue murder warrants for the slayers.

The governor looked over the exhibits and then explained to Goldwasser the laws governing the investigative activities of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation.

He also said to Goldwasser: "If this had happened in your hometown of Cleveland, it would have been forgotten in a day. It is unfortunate that it happened in Georgia and has been seized upon by a hostile press in its campaign to destroy states' rights not only in Georgia, but in all of the 48 states, through the civil rights program."

Czech Ambassador Asks U.S. Loan Of Machinery

Washington, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Czech Ambassador Vladimir Outrata today appealed to Undersecretary of State Lovett to permit delivery to his country of approximately $17,000,000 in American machinery and equipment.

Outrata told reporters the "greater part" of these supplies has been paid for with dollars but that American authorities have refused to grant export licenses.

Czechoslovakia's government is communist-dominated. The United States' policy is to screen exports to Russia and Russian-dominated countries so that the war potential of that area will not be increased.

Immediate military assistance by all of the American states to any member attacked by another nation in this hemisphere. First action would be a "cease fire" order.

2. If a member is attacked by an outside power, all the treaty signatories will have immediate consultation to decide what steps are needed to safeguard the hemisphere.

The Inter-American treaty, based on the United Nations charter, provides:

1. Immediate military assistance by all of the American states to any member attacked by another nation in this hemisphere. First action would be a "cease fire" order.

2. If a member is attacked by an outside power, all the treaty signatories will have immediate consultation to decide what steps are needed to safeguard the hemisphere.

The reason is that citizens of suburban Jerome fixed up one side of the street—the side traveled by outboard buses from Springfield. The buses use a different route coming back.

This happened after the bus company sought to discontinue service to Jerome on grounds the rough road damaged its vehicles. The company also told the Illinois Commerce Commission that the operation isn't profitable.

An attorney for the townspeople says he's going to fight the second contention, now that the first has been taken care of.

The street repair bill hasn't been paid yet. But the village is putting on a dance Saturday to raise the needed $400.

McGRATH TO CONTINUE AS DEMO CHAIRMAN

Washington, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Senator J. Howard McGrath (D-R.I.) said today he intends to continue as Democratic national chairman.

Talking to newsmen after calling on President Truman at the White House, McGrath was told there were rumors he would resign.

"These rumors should be entirely disregarded," McGrath declared, "because I am going to continue."

Extensive Espionage Ring At Work In U.S.

Red Hecklers Ousted From Political Rally

Berlin, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Fighting mad desert us. We will hold out until that day when this power returns which does not belong on European soil. Some day this dictatorship will fall and then freedom will reign also on the other (Russian) side of the Brandenburg gate and the Red flag will be supplanted by the German flag.

Reuter addressed the biggest of a dozen campaign meetings in the three western sectors, climaxing a drive to bring out the heaviest vote possible Sunday as a repudiation of the communists.

The communist-dominated Social Unity party (SPD) is boycotting the election which was scheduled under the city constitution approved by all four occupying powers. Soviet authorities, however, have banned voting in the eastern sector Sunday. They have recognized a communist rump regime elected by a show of hands at a mass meeting in east Berlin this week as "the only legal organ of the city administration."

Use of guards by various parties to protect their meetings from street fighters dates back to pre-1933 days when Nazi and Communist strong-arm gangs fought in Berlin streets.

After order was restored tonight, Ernest Reuter, who is expected to be made mayor after next Sunday's election, cried:

"We know who our foe is but he does not know how tough we are."

Reuter accused German communists of playing a Judas game: "They have sold out their own people for 30 pieces of silver." Then he shouted:

"The shift is working day and night, proof that the world will not desert us."

93-Day-Old West Coast Maritime Strike Ends

By the Associated Press. The costly 93-day-old West Coast Maritime strike ended officially at noon Friday. But demands of a non-striking AFL union put a new obstacle in the path of immediate sailing of long-lashed ships.

The waterfront ship second long in West Coast history, was settled when the CIO radio operators, last of the five unions to agree, came to terms after an all-night conciliation conference.

The radio operators settlement is subject to ratification by both sides. Shortly after the settlement, Harry Lundberg, head of the AFL seafarers union of the Pacific, announced that his men would not man ship unless ship-owners acknowledged jurisdictional guarantees and met contract wage provisions.

The AFL union has demanded guarantees that the new CIO Longshore and Cooks contracts do not infringe on its jurisdiction over Longshore rights on coastwise steamship crews, and over cooks and stewards on the Alaska steamship run.

Chambers Gives Proof Of Red Spies

Washington, Dec. 3.—(AP)—The house un-American activities committee said tonight it has obtained from Whitaker Chambers, admitted former Red agent, microfilmed copies of documents which provide "conclusive proof" that information significant to national security were "fed out of the state department."

Rep. Mundt (R-SD), said in a statement that the documents were given to Chambers by "a member of the communist underground." This member was not identified.

Mundt, a member of the committee, stated:

"There is now in the possession of the committee, under 24 hour guard, microfilmed copies of documents of tremendous importance, which were removed from the offices of the state department and turned over to Chambers for the purpose of transmittal to Russian communist agents."

Important Documents. "These documents are of such startling and significant importance, and reveal such a vast network of communist espionage within the state department, that they far exceed anything yet brought before the committee in its 10-year history."

"On the basis of evidence now before the committee, it appears that conclusive proof has been established that secret documents of direct significance to our national security were fed out of the state department by a member of the communist underground."

EGO IN THE AUTO

(Philadelphia Bulletin)

What turns a mild and peaceful person, when he drives a car, into a public menace and potential killer and maimer? Judge Truman H. Preston, a traffic expert of New York, put the question to the annual meeting of the American Automobile Association, but left the answer to psychologists.

Quoting the findings of recent surveys, Judge Preston said that "an overwhelming spirit of self-conceit" is responsible for a large percentage of highway accidents. But pedestrians are not held blameless, either. More than 40 per cent of them, according to the judge, "believe they have the right of way over all others who use streets and roads," and a lot get hurt for thinking so.

Among the most dangerous drivers, apparently, are those who somehow identify themselves with the speed and power of the cars they drive. Their ego swells up to 100 horsepower. They feel big and important, and everybody else may get out of the way or take the consequences.

The perilous pedestrian is brother beneath the skin to the dangerous driver. He carries a chip on his shoulder as he crosses the road ahead of an oncoming car. He defies the warning of the red light and even the policeman's frown and whistle. He is a big shot, too, and many like him are lying in cemeteries or the accident wards of hospitals.

Crowd Groans When Bass Are Released

It is bad enough when a three or four pound bass gives an extra lunge, winks his eye, and disappears from the business end of a fisherman's tackle. The fisherman is entitled to considerable latitude in what he says, or does, for the next few minutes.

Imagine, then, the moans and groans that rose up late Thursday afternoon from the banks of Lake

Mauvalsterre, where a crowd of 125 persons witnessed the "escape" of not one, but several dozen bass—some of them big, fighting beauties, weighing several pounds.

The bass became enmeshed in the seine that is being used by commercial fishermen to remove rough fish from the lake, under a contract with the city council. They were released from the nets by the fishermen, who pitched them back into the lake where they will continue to enjoy the aristocratic life of game fish.

Spectators "Suffer"
The commercial fishermen, accustomed to handling all kinds of fish, suffered no ill effects from releasing the bass. But with the crowd on the bank it was different. The spectators, most of whom try to catch big bass, but seldom make personal contact with them, actually groaned.

"Oh, Oh, look at that," was a common expression when bass, and numerous fair-sized crappie, were lifted from the seine and released. The crowd on the shore consisted of both men and women. Some of the latter have spent considerable time casting for bass and crappie, which the commercial fishermen caught so easily.

The first drag was made Thursday afternoon immediately north of Vandalla Road. Charles Swan and several assistants stretched out a 500 yard seine, pulled it over a large area, and made a haul southeast of the softball park. A number of carp and buffalo were in the haul, which was not as large as expected.

Larger Hauls Expected
The fishermen said other sections of the lake probably will produce larger hauls. Preparations were made to seine one of the deeper parts Friday.

Sportsmen who watched the operations were pleased with the number of game fish that showed up in the seine, an indication that Lake Mauvalsterre offers much possibility in the way of bass and crappie. Rough fish which are being removed from the lake will be replaced with game fish furnished by the Illinois Department of Conservation, which will further improve fishing.

Seining operations will continue several days. No fish are sold or given away at the lake shore. They are weighed and sold in commercial channels. All game fish are returned to the water as soon as they appear in the nets.

The seining crew was handicapped Thursday afternoon by slumps and brush on the bottom of the lake. The seine often snagged on these, and was released by a fisherman in a rowboat.

County Officials To Begin Terms Monday

Three Morgan county officials who were elected Nov. 2 will begin terms of office next Monday, Dec. 6. The fourth successful candidate for county office has already assumed his duties.

Albert W. Hall will become state's attorney, succeeding W. L. Fay who filled the unexpired term of Oscar Zachary, who resigned. Mr. Fay was not a candidate for reelection.

Clarence H. Muehlhausen will take over the duties of coroner, to which he was elected last month. He will succeed C. S. Young, who served two terms and was not a candidate for reelection this year.

Circuit Clerk Philip Bradish will begin a new term by virtue of his reelection.

County Commissioner Clarke Stevenson entered his new term of office within a few days after the election. The law governing terms in that office is different than the law which applies to other county offices.

All of the newly-elected officials have qualified and furnished bonds, ready for the first of next week.

State's Attorney Hall has named Russell Armstrong as his office assistant. Mr. Armstrong, a veteran of World War II, has taken a secretarial course at the Hardin Brown Business College.

Coroner Muehlhausen has appointed Roy Corington as deputy coroner.

No changes in personnel will take place in the office of Circuit Clerk Bradish, where Earl Wallis and Miss Strandberg are serving as deputies.

New Arnold Subway Opened To Traffic; Offers More Safety

Automobile and truck traffic on U. S. Highway 36 zoomed through the new subway at Arnold station Friday morning without slowing down, twisting or squirming to remain on the pavement. The approaches to the new subway under the Wabash railroad are straight as a string—a direct contrast to the old subway east of Arnold, which will be abandoned.

The new subway almost directly north of Arnold and the two and one-half miles of new pavement opened this week by the Illinois division of highways. Opening the new subway brought to a close a 28 year period in which scores of cars and trucks piled up at the old subway, where the pavement dipped at a sharp angle under the railroad tracks.

The new subway proper was built by the state at a cost of $125,000. The new stretch of pavement on both sides of the subway cost approximately $288,000.

Wabash Relocates Tracks
During the many months in which the pavement and subway were under construction, the Wabash railroad relocated a half mile of track near Arnold, to conform with state highway plans.

There were no formalities as the J. C. O'Connor & Sons Co. Inc., of Fort Wayne, Ind., threw open the subway to traffic. No one Friday could recall who drove the first car through the subway. Sections of the new pavement had been in use for some time.

The American Bridge Company of Chicago held a sub-contract on some of the steel-work that went into the subway.

Work continued Friday on shoulders of the newly-laid concrete.

Waltz into Darkness BY WILLIAM IRISH

THE STORY, Durand and his family go to Mobile, where they live high, wide and handsome. Last evening the promenade alone one day while Durand is having a gown fitted at the modiste, Durand comes back to face with to track Durand down.

XXXI

"DURAND," Durand said with a curious matter-of-factness. Durand tried to match it: nodded temperately, said, "You, eh?" Try not to show any fear of him, he kept cautioning himself, try not to show any fear. Forget that she is in such terrible proximity of this very moment, or you will be trying not to. Don't look over that way, where the shop is. Keep your eyes off it. Above all, move him around, circle him around the other way so that his back is to it. If she should happen suddenly to emerge—

"Are you alone here?" Durand asked. The question was idly turned, but following it, for a long moment, his eyes seemed to bore into Durand's, until the latter could scarcely endure it.

"Certainly," he said somewhat testily.

Downs lazily reared one palm in protest. "No offense," he drawled. "You seem to resent my asking."

"Can you give me any reason why I should take offense at such a question?"

"If you cannot, then I cannot," Downs said.

Durand gave the railing a slick smack of quittance, moved in away from it, drifted in an idle saunter past Downs and to the rear of him, closed up to the railing again, and came to rest against it on a negligent elbow. Downs automatically pivoted to face him where he now was.

"And what brings you here, in instant had been completed. Downs smiled with special meaning. Special meaning he, Durand, was intended to share whether he would or not. "What brings me anywhere?" he countered. "Not a holiday, rest assured. A body drifted ashore out of the eddies at Cape Girardeau on the 10th of this month, Mr. Durand. A body that had been murdered, thrown into the water dead. There was no water in the lungs. I took Bertha Russell down to look at it. And badly decomposed as it was, she identified it. As that of Julia Russell, her sister. Are you interested, Mr. Durand?"

Durand was breathing with difficulty; his chest rose and fell with visible labor at each intake and expulsion.

"Of course I'm interested," he said finally. "Do the official police know about this?"

"Not yet, but they will," Downs assured him deliberately.

IN the modiste shop entrance, in the middle distance, but still close enough at hand to be only too visible, a lengthwise streamer of color suddenly soared forth, as some woman, about to leave, lingered there half-in half-out in protracted fashion behind her talking to someone behind her. Durand's heart thrust hard against the cavern of his chest for a moment, like a pointed rock. Then the figure came out; tall, in blue, someone else.

His attention swerved back to Downs, to overtake what he had been about to miss. "I had heard reports," the latter was saying, "of a flashy blond who has been creating a stir down here with some man. They even got back to New Orleans. A flashy blond, almost silver to her lightness," Downs elaborated. "Have you happened to note any such pair? You have been down here longer than I, I take it."

Durand looked down at the planks underfoot. "I have been lured of blondes," he murmured grudgingly. He took out his watch. "I must go."

"Where are you staying?" Durand thumbed back across his shoulder, misleadingly. "Downs that way."

"I'll walk back with you to your stopping place, wherever it is," Downs offered.

"I'm a little pressed for time," Durand managed to get out.

Downs smiled calmly. "I never force myself on a man." Then he added pointedly, "That is, in sociability."

"Which way are you going?" Durand asked suddenly, seeing that he was about to turn and go back the other way, toward and past the modiste's. She might emerge just as he neared there—

HE took Downs by the arm all at once, pressing him. As insistent now as he had been reluctant a moment ago. "Come with me, anyway. Can I offer you a schooner of beer?"

Downs glanced overhead. "The sun is warm," he accepted. "Your own face, for instance, is quite moist."

They walked along side by side. At every pace Durand told himself: I've drawn him a step farther away from me.

"Here's a place; let's try this," he said presently.

"I was just going to suggest it myself," Downs observed.

They went in and seated themselves at a small wicker table.

"Two Pilsners," Durand told the mustachioed, striped-shirted waiter. Then before he could withdraw again, "Where is the closest?"

"Straight back," Durand rose. "Excuse me for a moment." Downs nodded, ironically it seemed to him.

Durand left him seated there, went out through the spring door. He found himself in a passage, ignoring the intermediate door to the side, he followed it to the rear, let himself out at the back of the place. He began to run like one possessed. He was possessed; possessed with the thought of saving her.

Crimsons, Blueboys Win; Tigers Edge Rockets

JHS Quintet Chalks Up Win Number Two At Flyers' Expense

The JHS Crimsons continued to fool the fans and proceeded with their winning ways as they dropped a tough Feltschans quintet by a 38 to 31 count on the Springfield five's boards Friday night.

Previously, victorious in two encounters, the Flyers were heavy favorites in the contest. Their size and zone defense kept the locals from the basket in the first half, and the contest proceeded very slowly. Bill Williams and Stan Spotts hit long ones over the Flyers' defense in the first period to give the Jacks a 10 to 8 lead. They were never headed by the Capital City five.

Flyers Are Tall

The Flyers, averaging six feet tall, stayed in their zone defense, and refused to come after Kraushaar's lads until the waning minutes of play. Spotts and Bussey held the ball from them in mid-court, until the diminutive Bussey fouled out. Gene Todd came out to a guard position, and helped hold the leather from the desperate Flyers.

The locals enjoyed their big scoring spree in the third period, when Rolly Trotter was inserted into the fray and switched the net with three tosses. The old standby Spotts hit from the field twice in this frame, and Gatchall, who did a wonderful job of rebounding against the contest, chalked up a lone try from the field, to complete a total of 13 points in this contest, and give the Crimsons a 28 to 21 edge to work on in the last quarter.

Outscored In Final Frame

Kraushaar's basketbros were outscored in the final frame, but managed to stall the big boys from Springfield out of the contest, by dint of some cool ball handling in mid-court.

The tilt was the first central conference game for both schools.

The Crimsons reserves boosted the

Winchester Club Blasts White Hall Five 81 To 49

Winchester-Howard Lester's five completely overwhelmed a White Hall quintet, racking up a total of 81 points to the Maroon's 49 on the Winchester floor Friday night.

Hankins, the Scott county five's big center, was the leading scorer of the fray, garnering a total of 32 points, most of them on rebounds. Stuart, a forward, hit some nice long shots over the White Hall zone defense, and totaled 19 markers for his evening's work.

Minnes was the only Maroon who was not completely swept off his feet. He fought back at the White Hall zone, putting on a fine exhibition of floor work and shooting, while racking up 26 points, but the job was too much for one man, and his efforts fell way short.

This was the first Illinois Valley conference tilt for both clubs.

Osterkorn Gets 27 Points As Illini Beat Butler 67-62

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Wally (Ox) Osterkorn pumped in 27 points to lead Illinois over Butler 67-62 in the Illini's basketball opener tonight.

The big center's output was the greatest since Andy Phillip dumped in 40 for Illinois against Chicago in 1943.

Illinois found Butler a stubborn foe most of the way and led only 35-34 at halftime after the score had been tied seven times in the first section. With 10 minutes to play, the Illini spurred into a 50-49 margin as Osterkorn hit for seven quick points. That broke up the game.

Osterkorn, who scored 14 points in the first half, hit 11 pivot shots out of 20 attempts. Illinois' team average was 24 baskets out of 68 while Butler made 22 out of 72 shots.

Ralph O'Brien, whose guarding limited Mike Edelman to one basket, led Butler with 14 points. Three of the Indians school's stars fouled out in the closing minutes. Bob Evans was banished with 14 minutes to go. John Barrowcliff with 17 and Jim Doyle with five.

The cut was patched up by Trainer Manny Seamon, however, and Louis said he would continue sparring tomorrow. The champion also said he did six miles of road-work this morning.

Meanwhile, Conn boxed five fast rounds with two sparring partners, Mike Buha and Clinton Bacon. The Pittsburgh Irishman, twice knocked out by Louis, displayed some snappy body punching in his drill which also included five rounds of floor work.

IC Raps Concordia Basketbros In First Game Of Season 57-42

Al Miller's Blueboys emerged victorious in their basketball debut of 57-42 by shagging Concordia college of St. Louis with a 57 to 42 setback on the Washington University floor Friday night.

Bill Shouse led Blueboy scorers with 16 markers, most of which were scored on a one handed push shot from way out on the floor. Murrin, the hilltop center, was also outstanding in this cage opener, tallying 14 points, and holding his opponent absolutely scoreless the entire length of the game.

Anybody's Ball Game

In the first half it was anybody's ball game, with the I.C. five holding a slight 25-20 advantage at the close of the period. The game was marked by some very rough play, with the Blueboys losing three of the starting five with six minutes remaining in the contest.

The Millermen held at slim 44 to 40 advantage when Shouse, Longer, and Gross left the game with too many personal fouls.

Paul Lasley, a first year man, from Jacksonville, Charles Dug, another local boy, Bob Grove and Dave Billings teamed with Murrin to carry on the fight. With the tall hilltop center leading the parade, the I.C. subs rolled up 13 more points while limiting the Concordia offense to two failures, and the game holding a comfortable 57 to 42 lead.

Play At Home Tonight

Local fans have their first opportunity to watch the local college five in action tonight when they swing into their initial home appearance against a Blackburn quintet. The Blueboys play their home games at the ISD gymnasium, and hostilities start at nine p.m. Joe Brooks' "B" squad will raise the curtain at 7 p.m. for the benefit of the early birds, clashing with the Nebo Independents.

Autos More Deadly Than Bullets, Says Rotary Speaker

"During the same period of time three times as many persons were killed in auto accidents in this country than were killed in World War II," Carl J. Penpek, high school driving instructor, told members of Rotary during their regular meeting Friday.

Penpek demonstrated some of the testing devices being used in the course in driving at the high school this year. These devices are used to check the student's eyes, depth perception, brake reaction and field of vision. When defects are discovered the student is recommended to have eye corrections where possible and, if not, is told at what speed it is safe for him to drive.

Students are taught the rules and regulations of the highway, starting, shifting, turning, driving, backing and parking. At the end of their course they are given a written examination and a test actually driving a car. The speaker urged that similar tests be adopted and enforced for all drivers in the interest of safety.
